Men's Small Group Leaders

2024-2025

Aden Wong

Junior

adenlukewong@gmail.com

Aden Wong, 3rd year (but graduating this year), Psych major (formerly Chinese double major), church lover (stay for evening with me!), Bible memorizer (Ecclesiastes), climber (I'll teach you too), skater (뽀빠이), chef (lmk your favorite food/dessert!), fashionably-challenged (the fit is the same yesterday, today, and forever), emoji wielder (🤔 📱) & pokemon nerd (gen 4 🏆), but I count it all as loss compared to knowing Christ!

I pray that small group this year would be an intimate season of brotherly love, and pointing each other to Jesus! I'll challenge you to grow and hope you'd return the favor. There's a possibility that we will go through Ecclesiastes together this year, I hope it would help you as much as (or more than!) it helped me :)

I'd love to meet up with you at a table (bruinwalk, my apartment, or dining hall..?)! Just shoot me an email with when you're free.

I may or may not be going through Ephesians this year, but whatever it may be, I'd love to chat and get to know you.

Joseph Manio

Junior

jmanyoo32@gmail.com

Hey guys! I'm Joseph (also known as jojo), a third-year chemical engineering major. I enjoy singing, playing piano and God-glorifying jokes.

I'm so excited for another year of small group, as we seek to pursue holiness and joy in the gift of Christian fellowship. My past two years of small group has been such a sweet time of faithful friendship and accountability, and I'm praying this year can be the same for you, no matter which small group you join. I'm planning on going over how the attributes of God change how we live, studying themes like God's sovereignty and greatness as it helps us kill sins like anxiety or pride. I'm still pretty flexible as well, and would love to study anything that gets us in God's word. Feel free to reach out, I'd love to hangout, jam, or destroy you in Smash :)

I'm excited to meet with other brothers so we can spur each other on to love and good works and support each other and our fellowship when the year gets tough. I would love to hang out with you, whether people-watching, walking around town, or just grabbing a meal. Hi everyone! My name's Mason; I graduated UCLA in 2022 and am working as a middle school English teacher now. I enjoy hefty burritos, good music, and playing guitar.

I'm not sure what we'll be studying in my small group yet, but I'm excited to dive into God's word together and be changed by it whatever the topic is. There are so many things that take our attention and affection from Christ, and small group is the perfect place to ask real questions of ourselves and each other about how we can better set our affections on Him and pursue holiness. Regardless of the leader, join a small group!!!! I'd love to hang out with you whether or not it's small group-related, so please reach out!:)

Nathan Hsu Grad Student
nathanhsu11@gmail.com

Hey, I'm Nathan! I am glad that you are checking out small groups. The overarching purpose is to look to Christ and treasure Him deeply. I pray that we would dwell in the joy that abounds from knowing His total forgiveness and see with clearer vision His grace and mercies anew every morning. I plan to study Biblical manhood, our call to lead, and discipline that strives for righteousness. My hope for this year is that, through studying the Word and walking together shoulder-to-shoulder, all godliness and brotherly affection would flourish in our lives as we edify and encourage one another. If this interests you, text me! 949-627-7327. I would love to meet you and talk more! Aside from this, I study mechanical engineering and enjoy eating really spicy food, cooking, training calisthenics, running (slowly), and reading.
