What's up guys. I'm Alex, and I'm a 3rd year Master's Seminary student. While most of my time is spent in the books, I also love basketball, frisbee, video games, martial arts, photography, piano, guitar, singing, and eating awesome food. If you like any of the above, let's hang out!

I'm tentatively planning to focus our small group on biblical counseling (how to encourage and exhort others from a biblical perspective). It's sometimes seen as a skill for "professional" Christians, but I think knowing how to give prudent advice is helpful for every believer! Let me know if you're interested, or if you just want to get some boba.

Hello! My name is Irvin and I'm a 4th year Psychobiology major. Small groups have been a tremendous blessing to me during my college years in terms of helping me better understand the Gospel and grow in my love for Christ and the church, and I hope it will be the same for you! It'd be my pleasure to be able to get to know you and grow alongside you this year! My goals for small group are to focus on developing a better foundational understanding of the Gospel and actively apply what we learn in our daily lives. Let me know if you are interested and come say hi!

Hello! I'm Isaac, and I graduated from UCLA a few years ago, and am excited to be serving at UCLA this year.

"God is most glorified in us, when we are most satisfied in Him." This year for small group, I hope to study the book of Romans to increase our joy and understanding of the truth that God justifies sinners by grace alone through faith alone in Christ alone. Furthermore, I hope to discuss how we might glorify God in our lives in light of these foundational truths.

Let me know if you are interested or if you just want to chat!

Hi, I'm a staffer in my fifth year at GOC and an engineer who designs train control systems. In my free time, I play a lot of basketball and softball, and I'm a pretty serious Giants fan. This year I want to explore disciplines for being a Christian all of the time--how to make Bible study, prayer, evangelism, and fellowship a part of everything we do.
