Small Group Leader Blurbs: Women

Erica Tien (3)

Hello! I'm a 3rd year business economics major with a possible cognitive science minor. I like Disney & dogs & photography & pie & honestly just food in general is pretty great. I don't have any set plans yet for what I want to go over this year in small group, but I definitely want to focus on growing in our familiarity with Scripture, and through that grow in our love for and worship of our Savior. I'm super excited to see how God will grow each of us in the coming year! Feel free to email me if you have any questions about small group, or if you just want to say hi and eat food or pet cute puppies because I'm always down for any of those!

Hello! I'm a third year Microbiology, Immunology, and Molecular Genetics (MIMG) major. Some things I enjoy include swimming, folding origami, playing piano, and going for walks.

This year I hope that small group will be a place of encouragement where we can openly share our struggles and joys with one another. I was thinking of going through a Christian book and have a few in mind (I'm also open to suggestions!). But most of all I hope we can grow together in love and trust in the Lord, setting our minds on the things above and working for His glory in all that we do. Feel free to message me if you're interested or just want to chat. I'm looking forward to meeting you! :)

Hi!! So excited that you're reading these, and are interested in joining a small group! I'm a fourth year who loves baking, eating ice cream (and will very gladly take you along, please ask me!), lifting, listening to hymns and music in general, and the book of Habakkuk! My hope for small group is that we may grow together in greater worship of God, that we may come to love the Lord more fully, and that we may walk alongside each other closely in sweet fellowship through prayer, mining the precious words of Scripture, and encouraging one another! As of now, I'm thinking of studying either Ephesians, different prophecies Jesus fulfilled in the Old Testament, or maybe a minor prophet! Please come say hi regardless of whether or not you're interested, I'd love to get to know you and see how God will grow you!

Hello! I'm thrilled that you are checking out GOC and our small groups. I am a third year political science major, possibly on a pre-law track! A bit about myself: I love working out to blogilates, eating desserts/drinking boba (then saying how bad it is for me afterwards), and playing volleyball. As a small group, I hope that we will all pray, spur, and keep one another accountable in our love for the Lord. Tentatively, I plan to go through a few books in NT, but I am open to whatever. No matter what, it will definitely be exciting to grow and get to know you better. Feel free to hit me up if interested, or if you want to talk! Snacks will be provided, but whether or not it'll be healthy depends on my mood :)

Hey there! I'm a third year MCDB major looking to pursue becoming a nurse practitioner. I am currently engaged and getting married in June which is very exciting!

This year in small group, I would love to see us grow together as women and followers of Christ. My ultimate focus as a small group leader will be to love you, pray for you, run the race with you, and be a witness to your sanctification in Christ. I hope to emphasize the truth that we are to engage in perfect surrender, not perfect performance, through Christ. With this at the forefront, we will focus on the gospels during Fall and perhaps another book over Spring and Winter. I would love to meet you and better understand what you would most benefit from; so feel free to send me an email/text!

Hello !

I'm a fourth year Psychology major who enjoys sea otter videos, going to the gym to watch Food Network on the treadmill, and attempting to cook/bake without giving myself salmonella (don't worry – it's only happened once !!). For small group, it is my hope that we will grow in love and knowledge of our Lord through delving into the Word and increasing our understanding of the gospel. Whether you are new to the faith or are a veteran "runner" of this race, it is my prayer that we will grow a deeper appreciation for the gospel, and in response, live our lives to glorify and magnify our Savior who deserves it all ! I have a few books in mind specifically for small group this year, but am open to whatever you're interesting in learning about. Don't hesitate to message me if you'd like to talk about small group or watch Food Network at the gym !!

Michelle Ngo (Working)

Greetings friends!

I'm Michelle and I just graduated this past spring as a sociology major! I'm currently working in LA and aspiring to be a wedding planner! Currently, I really enjoy film photography, faking a British accent, playing board games (Catan anyone??), making coffee, and crafting (more specifically, flower arranging & painting)!

My aim for small group this year is to grow together as we learn to love God the most, so that we can love people best. My hope is to study the book of James to challenge the way we live our Christian lives so that we may walk in a manner worthy of the gospel of Christ!

Hit me up if you ever need a ride, crave some boba, or wanna hang! :)

Naomi Yung (3)

HELLO. I'm a third year who likes soccer, trying to play basketball/anything I can run around in, reading, writing, and creative stuff, whether that's sewing or making films. I love Flaming Hot Cheetos, Lay's salt and vinegar kettle chips, and Cold Stone's apple pie ice cream. I hate onions and used to work at a produce market (the two are unrelated).

This year I want to build a solid foundation of understanding for the gospel, go over techniques to study the Bible, and utilize those skills by diving into an epistle, time permitting. However, this plan is flexible and open to suggestion, as my main focus is to have a small group that can pray for one another, keep each other accountable, and sanctify one another by cultivating our love for God (AND HANG OUT). If any/none of these things interest you, you should contact me!

Paulina Lin (Staff)

Hi I'm Paulina! Small groups are wonderful and Jesus is even better. Hit me up if you're looking for some spiritual friendship! I just graduated from UCLA this past June and enjoy ice cream, bouldering, volleyball, birds, and Disneyland. Let's hangout! I would love to get to know you. :)

Rachel Lin (4)

rachel.rlin30@gmail.com

Hello!!! My name is Rachel, and I'm a senior studying Biology, hoping to go into physical therapy! I enjoy cows, dancing, exclamation points, and learning more about the eternal God we can call Father! If you're interested in joining small group (please do!! Anyone is great), I have a few books (Bible or Christian) in mind that we might study, but I'm flexible and would love to hear what you would like to learn! If you're not interested (or joining another), still come say hi! I would love to get to know you :)

Samantha Leong (3)

srleong98@g.ucla.edu

Hallo! I'm a third-year physiological science major with no clue what career path to pursue. My unrealistic career aspirations include performing on Broadway, voicing a Disney princess, and being in a K-pop band (sorry, but not sorry). I enjoy singing and dancing (surprise!), eating, and taking walks. For small group, I'd like to go through a Christian book together since Christian books have been extremely helpful and challenging for me. Although that plan is subject to change, I certainly want to memorize Scripture together. Hiding God's Word in our hearts, clinging to His promises, and meditating on His truth day and night are critical for our souls' health and essential for lives well-lived, yet we often fail to prioritize memorizing the Bible; I pray that together we can push each other to treasure and obey God's words.

Waveley Qiu (3)

Hello ladies! Small groups provide unique opportunities to be cared for, learn, and be held accountable and I am so glad you are interested in joining one.

The Lord has granted to us everything pertaining to life and godliness (2 Peter 1:3) in His Word. This year, I would like Scripture to instruct us on leading lives pleasing to the Lord, which are reflective of our salvation and motivated by the glory of Christ (Titus 2:11-14). To this end, I am planning on studying one of the most foundational components of godly living: godly thinking. I would like to go through a book of the Bible (Deuteronomy or Titus) and perhaps the Westminster Catechism. Let me know if you have any questions or would like to talk – I would love to get to know you!
